

John B. Klow retired from 35 years of U.S. government service in 2009, having served with U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) as a Program Manager at CBP Headquarters, Interim Director of CBP's Pilot Admissibility Review Office, and Interim Port Director for CBP at Minneapolis, MN following the Department of Homeland Security restructuring in 2003. He also held various supervisory and managerial positions within the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS). John Klow was national coordinator of INS' NSEERS program from September 2002 to January 2003. He was one of INS' main authors of the Title IIIA regulations following passage of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996, and was CBP's principal author of the October 2008 regulation authorizing admission of certain nonimmigrants with HIV infection.

John Klow has regularly appeared as a guest lecturer at the University of Minnesota Law School and William Mitchell College of Law. He has also been a frequent speaker at national, regional, and local conferences of the Federal Bar Association and the American Immigration Lawyers Association .

Since retirement from government service, John Klow has worked exclusively with the private bar, helping with complex immigration cases. He may be reached at Johnbklow@frontiernet.net and by phone at 651-462-8227.